Press release

T&S appoints Arnaud Maury as CEO to accelerate its growth and transformation

Schiltigheim, 23 November 2026 – T&S, an international company specialising in industrial and digital transformation through engineering, digital, data, AI and consulting, today announces the appointment of Arnaud Maury as CEO, effective immediately. He will work closely with the company's founder, Jérémie Huss, who will now dedicate himself exclusively to his role as Chairman of the Strategic Committee. Together, they will be tasked with accelerating the growth of T&S across its markets, notably by promoting its new AI offerings, which are currently being launched.

A company driving industrial and digital transformation

Founded in 2008, T&S supports companies in their industrial, digital and operational transformation projects, helping them design, develop and industrialise products, systems and solutions tailored to the challenges of their sector. The company brings together a range of complementary expertise in consulting, engineering, digital, data and artificial intelligence, deployed from requirements definition through to production at designated client sites, whether locally, nearshore or offshore.

T&S today has more than 3,000 experts across 10 countries and 30 offices, including 16 locations in France. The company works with clients in a wide range of sectors, including automotive, medical, energy, aerospace and defence, as well as financial services and luxury retail.

A new chapter for T&S

The industry is undergoing profound change: artificial intelligence is redefining business models, clients expect solutions that combine consulting, engineering, data and digital, and growth opportunities are real, both in France and internationally. The next chapter for T&S is one of growth, conquest and AI-driven transformation.

Artificial intelligence, a strategic priority for T&S

At a time when artificial intelligence is transforming engineering professions and accelerating design and production cycles, Arnaud Maury and his leadership team will oversee the roll-out of new offerings designed to support the integration of AI into products and business processes, helping clients turn technology into a competitive advantage that serves their ambitions.

As Chairman of the Strategic Committee, Jérémie Huss oversees the company's long-term direction, its major structural projects and its strategic partnerships. He will now devote himself fully to this role, in support of Arnaud Maury and the Executive Committee.

A graduate of ENSIP and INSEAD (AMP), Arnaud Maury, 56, has more than 25 years of experience in consulting and technology services. His career has been marked by building international businesses and leading transformation projects. After more than 20 years at Altran, where he held several senior leadership positions, including CEO France and Senior Vice President Western Cluster, he was appointed CEO France of Capgemini Engineering. Since 2021, he had been Group Managing Director of moOngy, a network of engineering and digital consulting firms.

"I am delighted to join T&S at such a pivotal moment in its history. The depth of its expertise, the commitment of its teams, its new offerings and the trust of its clients are solid assets. My goal is to accelerate the company's growth and make T&S a leading player in its markets", says Arnaud Maury, CEO of T&S.

"Today, T&S is opening a new chapter in its history. Arnaud Maury knows T&S's businesses very well and shares its performance culture. His arrival is in line with our strategy and will enable us to accelerate it, while preserving the entrepreneurial culture that is our strength. We have the teams, the ambition and the expertise; the best of T&S is yet to come", adds Jérémie Huss, founder and Chairman of the Strategic Committee of T&S.
